WEDNESDAY EVENING JANUARY 30.

THE KING OF SPAIN.—The only monarch in the world of whom absolutely nothing disagreeable is said is his Majesty King Alfonso of Spain. He is getting on toward his third birthday, and preparations for that event are being made and written about, though it is still several months off. A great many industrious writers and correspondents continue to pour out information regarding this important baby. One full-grown scribbler declares with the utmost seriousness that the little King is modest and unassuming and gives no thought to his exalted position or his future destiny, a truly remarkable thing in a boy thirty months old. It seems, too, that his long list of names and the fact that he is officially known as the well-beloved son of the Pope, the brother of all gentlemen who wear crowns, and the cousin of Spanish grandees has not inflated him with pride. The principal misfortune of his life appears to be that he has no one to play with him. No child could be allowed to play with him unless it were old enough to understand how careful it would have to be not to infringe upon his royal dignity, and besides the Queen is afraid of offending jealousy by conferring upon any great lady the honor of having her children play with the King. The hardest work to which this young monarch is subjected is that of receiving his ministers, dignitaries, State generals, grandees, and so forth, while sitting on the throne in his nurse's lap, a ceremony which necessitates his sitting still while all these things pass before him. At Wednesday's reception 2,000 great men of various kinds turn up to see the King and bow to him. One precious advantage which this royal baby has over ordinary ones and which cannot be exaggerated is that everybody who comes along and admires his curls has not the right to kiss him. —Cor. N. Y. Sun.
